Ever since its founding,

indeed, as a foundational principle, working professionals have made up the School of Visual Arts faculty. In our classrooms and studios they pass on the hard-earned lessons and skills they have acquired and point to what's ahead. Since SVA is based in New York City—a global capital of art, design and their related fields—the pool of talent from which we draw our faculty is exceptional. It is largely for this reason that SVA has been successful as an educational institution.

—David Rhodes, President
